Catholic Charities Appeal

2012 Report

Difficult times help donors understand the need

As the 2012 Catholic Charities Appeal entered its final two weeks, it had eclipsed the $3 million dollar level and was still climbing. Numerous parishes had exceeded their 2011 totals and were beginning the process of contacting those parishioners that had not yet responded.

"It's a lot of money, but it's still a long way from our goal of raising as much as possible and surpassing last year's total of $4.241 million," was a comment echoed by everyone at the Appeal Office in Fall River.

"It's never about setting a new record, it's really all about truly knowing that we need more money to assist those we see coming to our agencies for help, many of whom couldn't have imagined in their wildest dreams that they would have to ask for assistance from an agency they had actually contributed to for many years themselves before their own personal setback," said Mike Donly in the Appeal Office.

"I know records get the headlines, but being able to minister to literally thousands of people who need assistance is the true goal, and we can't do that without our steadfast supporters and hopefully many new donors who come to realize that we need their help to do this, especially in these tough economic times," he added. "Many times we've experienced people saying that the times are tough and it is difficult for them to give, and yet this awareness of difficult times actually gives them a better idea of just how much worse it can be for others and serves as an incentive for them to dig deeper and find a way to make a pledge or donation to the Appeal. This selfless giving is really them paying attention to the message in the Gospel of Matthew: 'Whatever you do for one of these, the least of My brothers and sisters, you do for Me.'"

"Caring, Sharing, Offering Hope" is the slogan for the 2012 Appeal, but actually it has been the unofficial slogan of the Appeal since the first one in 1942. The phrase says it all. Obviously if we didn't care about those in need we wouldn't consider sharing whatever resource we might have to assist them, and if we didn't we would be offering no hope to those who desperately need something positive in their lives.

"The success of the Appeal is judged solely on whether we are able to minister to those in need who are counting on us, and it is dependent upon caring, compassionate concern, and in the end the generosity these attributes elicit from our parishioners and supporters," Donly said. "It really is that simple."

For more information, visit www.frdioc-catholiccharities.org or contact the Appeal Office at 508-675-1311.

The 71st annual Catholic Charities Appeal will continue until June 21. Contributions to the Appeal can be sent to the Catholic Charities Appeal Office, P.O. Box 1470, Fall River, Mass. 02722; dropped off at any parish in the diocese; or made on the website: www.frdioc-catholiccharities.org.
